📅 Published: 10 September 2021

Orpheus Moraitis is an Electronic engineer specialized in sound related projects, and has worked with musicians and visual artists throughout Greece. He currently works as a Software and Hardware Developer at Dreadbox-fx.

In June he is escorting a Halldorophone (<https://halldorophone.info/>), an electroacoustic cello, from Athens to Stockholm to be deposited at EMS. Working with Halldór Ulfarsson (<http://halldor.gr/BIO.html>), the creator of the Halldorophone, Orpheus has contributed to the electronic design of the instrument.

Musically he is interested in experimenting with all kinds of media for creating ambient / drone like soundscapes, and to find new ways of implementing ideas on his own designs. During his stay he is looking forward to exploring the analogue synths at EMS (<https://elektronmusikstudion.se/work/studio-equipment>).
