Eomac (<http://www.eomac.net>) is an artist, composer, producer, label owner and DJ. He has released on a number of labels, such as Trilogy Tapes, Stroboscopic Artefacts, Killekill (with 2014's critically acclaimed album 'Spectre', which FACT Mag called 'a bit of a classic'), and a double album for Bedouin Records, based around samples of Arabic and Islamic music curated by the label.

Alongside this is a side project under the EeOo moniker, the collaborative duo Lakker on R&S Records with producer Arad, and noeverything with producer / vocalist Laura Kilty (aka LAIR). All of this activity has garnered support and attention from far afield and Eomac can now count the likes of Thom Yorke (who included a number of Eomac tracks in his 'Moon Shaped Pool' release playlists), Surgeon, Nina Kraviz, Ron Morelli, Laurel Halo and Aphex Twin among his many fans.

Next up is a tour of his exciting new live AV show, which was premiered at Unsound, Krakow, Oct 21st, 2016, and the launch of Eotrax, a new label focused on releasing engaging, honest, forward thinking music.

Laura Kilty (<https://laurakilty.com/>) is an Irish artist, singer, composer, producer and Sound Healer. She writes and performs music under the monikers LAIR and LuminouSounds, and is one half of duo noeverything with Eomac.

Her creative focus for 2017 is LAIR. This music encompasses elements of ritual, mysticism, deep listening, meditation and energy work, expressed through the lens of textured and layered electronic music derived from vocal samples.

Laura is currently finishing her first LAIR album and developing a show to go with it. The show will put the metaphysical elements of the music front and centre.

The debut LAIR EP will be released on Eotrax in 2017.
